

You've Got Questions, We've Got Answers

Every day, we hear hundreds of questions from Members. Here are some of the most common issues that keep people awake at night.

Can this marriage be saved?

Relationship problems are one of the most frequent issues that we hear about. When a relationship with a life partner falters, it can really throw everything else in life out of sync. Explore our many online resources for interpersonal and family relationships to learn how to productively manage disputes, improve communications and find resources for where and how to get help if problems persist.

How am I going to pay the bills this month?

Lately, financial worries are the #2 issue we hear about, with debt being at the top of the list. If you are in deep debt or on a continuing cycle of juggling bills, our online financial resources and our Tools for Tough Times might help. If you are in over your head, we can also connect you to debt counselors.

Am I normal?

OK, nobody actually calls and asks that exact question, but we get many variations on that theme: Do I drink too much? Should I be over my grief by now? Why can't I cope with things better? Is it normal to feel this depressed? Everyone has times in their lives when their usual coping mechanisms fail or when they question their emotional stability. Our online Behavioral Health resources let you confidentially explore anxiety, depression, grief, stress and other mental health issues. You can also take self assessments and quizzes. Of course, our counselors are available 24/7.

Am I saving enough for my retirement?

Baby Boomers are definitely looking to their future – but so are Gen X and Millennials. Whether your goal is retirement, a home purchase, or your child's college fund, our online Financial Resource Center has hundreds of calculators, articles and tools to help you explore different financial scenarios and budget for the future.
