Don't Forget!

EAP services are available to you and your household members as well as dependent children living away from home, up to age 26.

Advice for Happy Holiday Dynamics

For most people, getting together with family and friends is the biggest joy of the holiday season. But after a few years of small and low-key pandemic holiday celebrations, you can be forgiven if you need to brush up on your social skills and etiquette. We asked our counselors to share their best tips for surviving the holiday season with minimal stress. Here's what they said:

- Keep realistic expectations. Things won't always go according to plan. Embrace imperfection. Relax.
- Put down the devices and turn off the electronics. Make a "no-electronics" rule at special meals and gatherings.
- Keep a sense of humor. Laughter, humor, and a positive attitude are contagious and can cover a multitude of sins.
- Be a giver, not a taker. Listen more than you talk. Give more than you get. Kindness and generosity build happiness and reduce stress.
- Be flexible. Traditions change as families expand. Roll with the changes and remember that it's about people and sharing, not rituals.
- Avoid touchy topics. Steer clear of topics that lead to arguments. If you can't do that, then practice tolerance. Give people the benefit of the doubt.
- Forgive and forget. The holidays are the perfect time to free yourself from the burden of old grudges. Forgiveness is liberating and a gift to both the forgiver and the forgiven.

Build Resilience for a Successful 2023!

If you're looking to make some changes or achieve personal or professional goals in the coming year, here's a good place to start: Building your resilience.

Think of resilience as a psychological competence that allows us to lead authentic, fulfilling, balanced lives. It equips us to adapt to life's misfortunes and setbacks and get back up on our feet. It also helps us to follow our dreams and achieve important life goals.
