Inclusivity & Fairness at Work

Promoting diversity in the workplace is crucial for creating a welcoming environment that fosters collaboration and innovation. Creating an inclusive climate is something that is not just the responsibility of management or HR – it's up to all of us. June is an important month for diversity. First, it's LGBTQ+ Pride Month, a time to recognize and celebrate the accomplishments and contributions of the LGBTQ+ community. Second, June also features our newest national holiday, Juneteenth, which is celebrated on June 19th to commemorate the end of slavery in the United States. It's an excellent time to think about how we can all contribute to building an inclusive and fair workplace. Here are steps you can take to help make your workplace more diverse and inclusive:

- Educate yourself: Take the time to learn about different cultures, perspectives, and experiences. Attend workshops, read books, and listen to podcasts to broaden your knowledge. Look for festivals, too - food and music are a fun way to learn more about a culture.
- Learn what discrimination and harassment are. Visit your ESI Training Center for courses you can take. See our training suggestions related to diversity below.
- If you see something, say something. If you hear or see something that is offensive, discriminatory, or unfair, speak up and address it. Silence can be seen as acceptance, so it's important to be an ally and advocate for marginalized populations. Report on-the-job bullying or harassment that you experience or observe to HR.
- Check out our blog posts to learn more about these June events, how you can get involved, and how you can be a better ally. Each post has numerous links to great online resources.

Men's Health and Tips for Dad!

What better way to commemorate Father's Day than to look after Dad's health? June is designated as Men's Health Month. The purpose of dedicating a month to this theme is to raise awareness of preventable health problems and encourage early detection and treatment of disease among men and boys. And while it's good to think of Dad and his health, why not encourage any of the men you care about to get a health screening? Getting recommended screenings is one of the most important actions men can take for their health. Depending on age and medical history, screenings might include checking for certain types of cancer; high blood pressure; high cholesterol; diabetes; sexually transmitted diseases (STDs); and mental health conditions, such as depression and PTSD. Here are some tips for Dads...and all guys.
