Challenges of Caregiving

November is National Family Caregivers Month, a time to honor and focus on the needs of the 43.5 million caregivers among us. Who are the caregivers? Look around at your colleagues! In a recent benefit survey, 57% of employees surveyed self-identified as caregivers. A caregiver is an unpaid family member or other person who provides help with activities of daily living and medical tasks for seniors, children with disabilities or people with cancer, brain injuries, ALS, MS, Alzheimer's Disease, and many other health conditions. The toll on caregivers can be high in terms of stress, fatigue, isolation, and depression. Without support, caregivers often suffer deterioration in physical, mental, and financial health. Support caregivers in your life by staying connected and listening. Plus, offer concrete help such as shoveling a walk, mowing a lawn or offering a ride. Find ways to break through their isolation and relieve their stress.

Here are caregiver-to-caregiver basic tips for maintaining good health:

- "Put your own lifejacket on first" by taking care of your own physical and mental health.

- Share your feelings. Find someone to talk to – a counselor, an online network, a support group, or a friend.
- Identify and tap into local support resources. Learn how to ask for help and accept it.
- Don't neglect your own needs and interests. Take time off, even if only a few minutes a day.
- Learn how to say no. Pace yourself and set limits. Recognize signs of burnout and get help.
- Find healthy ways to deal with your stress: Yoga, meditation, reading, listening to music, or walking in nature.

Giving Thanks

With Thanksgiving in the air, we offer a few thoughts on gratitude and thankfulness:

- "When eating fruit, remember the one who planted the tree." - Vietnamese Proverb
- "Feeling gratitude and not expressing it is like wrapping a present and not giving it." - William Arthur Ward
- "Let us be grateful to people who make us happy; they are the charming gardeners who make our souls blossom." - Marcel Proust

Diabetes Prevention

November is American Diabetes Month. Diabetes is the 7th leading cause of US death, but most people first have prediabetes. Do you? Over a third of US adults have prediabetes but don't know it. Prediabetes can be prevented or reversed with proven lifestyle changes, such as weight control, healthy diets, and regular physical activity.
